Coursera is a popular online learning platform that offers:

- Courses, certifications, and even degree programs
- Created by top universities (like Stanford, Yale, University of London) and companies (like Google, Meta, IBM)
- Covers a wide range of subjects — tech, business, design, personal development, etc.

🎯 Key Benefits of Coursera for Your Users:

- 🎓 Many courses are free to audit, with optional paid certificates
- 🏆 Courses often include real credentials from well-known universities
- ⌚ Courses are flexible and self-paced
- ✅ Some courses offer career certificates recognized by employers (e.g., Google IT Support Certificate)v

Example Course:

Course: Data Analysis with Python
Platform: Coursera
Duration: ~4 weeks
Cost: Free to audit, ~$49 for a certificate

Alternative platform

1. Coursera : University-backed courses & career certificates
2. edX : Academic-level courses from institutions like MIT, Harvard, etc.
3. Udemy : Beginner to expert-level, affordable one-time courses
4. LinkedIn Learning : Professional development and soft skills, LinkedIn-integrated
5. Khan Academy (Optional) : Free academic learning, good for fundamentals
6. Skillshare : Creative skills: design, video, writing, branding, etc.
7. YouTube : Free tutorials and walkthroughs — fast, informal
8. FutureLearn (Optional) : UK-based platform with certifications
